ARC News

Fall is in the air and that brings some cooler temperatures. It is also the time of the year to be thinking about doing some yard work and sprucing up your homes. Our semi-annual inspections have been scheduled.

They are: Oak Grove – completed 9/1/21
Citrus Ridge – In progress
Lakeview – Week of Oct 3rd
Banbury – Week of Oct 17th

Common Causes of High Water Bills

An unusually high water bill is most often caused by a leak or change in water use. Some common causes of high water bills include:

- A leaking toilet, or a toilet that continues to run after being flushed
- A dripping faucet; a faucet drip can waste 20 gallons of water a day or more
- Watering the lawn, new grass, or trees; also check for open hose spigots
- A broken water pipe or obvious leak; the water heater could also be leaking
- Water softener problems – cycles continuously

A drop in water pressure throughout the home could indicate a leak.

Things to check if you receive a bill that's higher than usual:

Changes in Your Water Use

Did you water your lawn more than usual, have your home pressure-washed, or do anything else out of the ordinary? If so, this may account for an increase in your water bill.

Outdoor and Underground Leaks

Leaks can occur in hard to find places, such as under your home. Also, check outdoor spigots and irrigation systems, and look for wet spots in your yard, which may indicate a leak.

Check for Leaks

Leaks, whether unseen or unfixed, can waste hundreds and even thousands of gallons of water. It is important to routinely check your plumbing and home for leaky faucets, toilets, outside taps and irrigation lines.

Toilet and Faucet Leaks

The most common cause for a high water bill is running water from your toilet. A continuously running toilet can waste up to 200 gallons a day. That can double a family's typical water use, so fix toilet leaks as soon as possible. Some leaks are easy to find, such as a dripping faucet or running toilet. You can usually hear a running toilet, but not always.

Do-It-Yourself Toilet Assessment

First check for the most common leak: a deteriorated or defected flush valve (flapper) ball at the bottom of the toilet tank. If it does not make a tight seal water will leak into the toilet bowl. To check for this:

- Take the lid off the tank behind the bowl, flush the toilet, then wait for it to fully refill.
- Put a few drops of dye or a colored dye tablet in the tank
- Wait at least 20 minutes; longer if you suspect it is a small leak
- If there is any color in the toilet bowl, there is a leak

The second most common type of leak has to do with an improperly adjusted or broken fill (ballcock) valve. To check for this take the lid off of the toilet tank, flush, and see if water is draining into the overflow tubes when the tank is full.

Irrigation Systems

During the summer irrigation systems are a common source of high water use. Watering times double during the summer months compared to the winter. Automated irrigation systems should be checked regularly to be sure they are functioning properly and have no leaks or broken sprinkler heads. If a sprinkler valve sticks on, it could waste an extremely large quantity of water. If a pop-up sprinkler head is stuck up and is damaged by the mowers, it is the homeowner's responsibility to have it repaired. The irrigation timer may not be programmed properly: i.e., sprinklers are watering too often and/or for too long. Reprogramming may be necessary if the power has been off.

Water Softeners

Residents with water softeners have higher water bills due to the regeneration or backwash cycles their systems go through. The systems are preset to regenerate or backwash on a regular basis. There are times when these systems will get stuck in a cycle which will cause higher water use.

The following table shows the amount of water that can be lost (and billed to your account) for various size leaks.

Leak Size		Gallons Per Day	Gallons per Month
	A dripping leak consumes:	15 gallons	450 gallons
	A 1/32 inch leak consumes:	264 gallons	7,920 gallons
	A 1/16 inch leak consumes:	934 gallons	28,300 gallons
	A 1/8 inch leak consumes:	3,806 gallons	114,200 gallons

What Can I Do if My Bill is Unusually High?

If you receive a bill that you feel is too high, check over the common causes listed on this sheet. This may help pinpoint the source of the high bill. You can also contact the Utility Department to have your reading rechecked and see if your meter indicates a leak is present. If the meter reading is checked and found to be accurate, you may need to contact a plumber or other professional to help determine the source of the leak. Property owners are responsible for all water lines from the water meter to the house and to the irrigation system.

Please locate & operate the water shut off valves at your house. In case of a water emergency your valves need to be operable to shut the water at your home, especially if it is after hours and a Utility Technician cannot arrive in a timely manner. Also, if you are going to be gone for an extended period of time you may want to shut the water to your house. If you do not have one, please consider contacting a plumber to have one installed.
